Give Yourself to the Rain-Margaret Wise Brown 2012-03-09

Margaret Wise Brown once observed, "To write well for children, one must love the things that children love." And write well for children she did -- with a deep love for and a keen perception of all things great and small in the world around us. Collected here for the first time are twenty-four of Margaret Wise Brown's children's poems, which range in subject from jig-dancing pigs and the wild sound of the wind to the colors of a summer day and the joy of giving oneself to the rain. With a foreword by noted children's literature scholar and Brown biographer Leonard S. Marcus, and illustrated with vibrant and sensitive paintings by Teri L. Weidner, Give Yourself to the Rain is a precious gift to be shared among children and adults everywhere.

The Long Sunset-Jack McDevitt 2019-01-29 From Nebula Award winner Jack McDevitt comes the eighth installment in the popular The Academy series—Priscilla “Hutch” Hutchins discovers an interstellar message from a highly advanced race that could be her last chance for a mission before the program is shut down for good. Hutch has been the Academy's best pilot for decades. She's had numerous first contact encounters and even became a minor celebrity. But world politics have shifted from exploration to a growing fear that the program will run into an extraterrestrial race more advanced than humanity and war. Despite taking part in the recent scientific breakthrough that rejuvenates the human body and expands one's lifespan, Hutch finds herself as a famous interstellar pilot with little to do, until a message from an alien race arrives. The message is a piece of music from an unexplored area. Despite the fact that this alien race could pose a great danger and that this message could have taken several thousand years to travel, the program prepares the last interstellar ship for the journey. As the paranoia grows, Hutch and her crew make an early escape—but what they find at the other end of the galaxy is completely unexpected.

Gnome Invasion-Eileen Cook 2011-08-16 The third in a series of books about Willow's adventures as she masters her secret fairy powers, navigates sprite training, tries to ignore her perfect older sister, and maintains a friendship with Katie, the most un-normal of humans. Willow Avery seems to be advancing in her fairy training with alarming speed. In addition to being able to talk to animals (a very unusual power), she can also fly! But it isn't all good news. Willow's human bff, Katie, has discovered that fairies exist and that's put the Averys in a difficult position. They're under review from the Fairy Council as to what humans' knowledge of fairies could mean. Meanwhile, Willow is entering the school science fair and she's vowed not to use her magic to help her win. So she tests different methods of watering plants the old fashioned way: trial and error. However, a vindictive garden gnome, Jakob DeGroot, is appalled at her plant abuse and does everything in his power to thwart her science project. Of course, drama continues with Bethany and Katie, and new crush Nathan at school. And it looks like Jakob might be meddling with her human classmates' projects too! Can Willow stop the meddling gnome and still be able to compete--all without magic?

MATLAB Control Systems Engineering-Cesar Lopez 2014-09-22

MATLAB is a high-level language and environment for numerical computation, visualization, and programming. Using MATLAB, you can analyze data, develop algorithms, and create models and applications. The language, tools, and built-in math functions enable you to explore multiple approaches and reach a solution faster than with spreadsheets or traditional programming languages, such as C/C++ or Java. MATLAB Control Systems Engineering introduces you to the MATLAB language with practical hands-on instructions and results, allowing you to quickly achieve your goals. In addition to giving an introduction to the MATLAB environment and MATLAB programming, this book provides all the material needed to design and analyze control systems using MATLAB's specialized Control Systems Toolbox. The Control Systems Toolbox offers an extensive range of tools for classical and modern control design. Using these tools you can create models of linear time-invariant systems in transfer function, zero-pole-gain or state space format. You can manipulate both discrete-time and continuous-time systems and convert between various representations. You can calculate and graph time response, frequency response and loci of roots. Other functions allow you to perform pole placement, optimal control and estimates. The Control System Toolbox is open and extendible.

The London Confession of Faith Revised-Anonymous 2016-12-06 This publication commemorates the five-hundredth anniversary of the Protestant Reformation, out of which a progeny, the Puritans, indelibly captured the blessed doctrines of the "unsearchable riches of Christ" in various confessions of faith - those mighty men "who assembled at Westminster, Savoy, and in London, [who] were of as godly, judicious divines, as the world ever knew! ... And as it was the method of those Particular Baptists of London and the vicinity, put forth about the year 1677, to express their sentiments in a way that not only gave a full account of things believed among them, but also fixed their method on the one adopted by the Westminster Assembly and 'those of the Congregational way,'" so too that same design has been maintained in the present revision. "Therefore, care has been diligently taken to compare all three 17th-century confessions to preserve the doctrines, words and terms, the sense, and agreement, insofar as they are agreeable to the word of God. It is hoped that the reader discovers straightaway the conformity to the thought flow of the originals; and the sequence, words, and phrases that were common in the 17th-century were assiduously chosen, except where it was impossible to do so." A Larger Catechism has been added, "hitherto unknown to the Baptists, to expand and fully articulate the statements in the Confession and to increase knowledge among the people of God. A Shorter Catechism has been added which is meant to be useful in the training of children, new converts, and as many as are of weaker capacity. Both ... Catechisms were revised in the same manner as the Confession in order to preserve uniformity and agreement, and that both would be agreeable to the word of God, and in nothing contrary to the received doctrine. All three treatises taken together are meant to form the London Standards, and it is here presented for consideration. Let the 'Epistle to the Reader' affixed to the Westminster Confession of Faith speak thus: 'It is ordinary in these days for men to speak evil of things they know not; but if any are possessed with mean thoughts of these treatises, we shall only give the same counsel to them that Philip gives Nathanael, Come and see, John i. 46.'" The Puritan is primarily concerned about a pure church, a truly Reformed Church. Men may like aspects of the Puritan teaching - their great emphasis on the doctrine of grace, and their emphasis on pastoral theology; but however much a man may admire those aspects of Puritanism, if his first concern is not for a pure church, a gathering of saints, he surely has no right to call himself a Puritan - D.M. Lloyd-Jones.
